

Press Release
ARESIA in the USA
02-19-24

ARESIA is thrilled to announce the creation of its first subsidiary in the United States:
ARESIA Inc.

This strategic move is a key milestone for ARESIA's commitment to enhance and expand its partnership and support to the United States aeronautical industry.

ARESIA, the consolidation of legacy companies such as AEDS, Alkan, Lace, Rafaut or Secapem, has been a strong and reliable operator in the aerospace industry for more than 100 years.

From now on, ARESIA innovative solutions, as well as customer services and spare parts, will be operated locally in the US thru ARESIA Inc.

ARESIA Chairman, Bruno Berthet, commented on the incorporation, saying, "For a French owned company, opening its first subsidiary in the country of the biggest defense and civil aeronautical market, is a challenge, as well as a major and very exciting step in our development. We are confident that operating in the US will strengthen our position on North American market and will provide us the possibility to improve drastically our support to US partners."

About Aresia

ARESIA is specialized in carriage and release systems, hydraulic and fuel tanks, training and scoring solutions and customer support.

ARESIA has a recognized experience in the design, development, manufacturing of complex mechanical assemblies in restricted environments and embedded digital solutions.

To learn more about ARESIA and its groundbreaking contribution to the aeronautics industry, visit www.aresia.com

ARESIA Inc.

Alain Thevenot - CEO
alain.thevenot@aresia.com

Christophe Labenelle – Head of Business Development America
christophe.labenelle@aresia.com